CONSIDER CONFISCATION OF FOREIGN VESSELS DISREGARDING RULING ON BRINGING LIQUOR STORES HERE

Series Conferences Between Treasury and Prohibition Officials Today Discuss Sharp Change in Policy to Shipping Companies

DRASTIC STEPS PROMISED AS RESULT OF MEETINGS

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Seizure by the United States of foreign vessels in violation of Supreme Court decision and treasury regulation, it is understood were considered in a series of conferences today between treasury and prohibition officials. Thus far there has been no attempt to do more than confiscate liquor itself but some officials who sat in conference are understood to have urged that more drastic steps be taken if foreign shipping companies continue their policy of openly disregarding the treasury ruling against bringing liquor stores into American jurisdiction. No decision was announced.

Those participating in the conference were acting secretary Gilbert and assistant secretary Moss of the Treasury department, representative Blair of the internal revenue bureau, assistant prohibition commissioner Jones, representing commissioner Haynes, and chief counsel Britt of the prohibition unit. It was pointed out that the Volstead act requires the seizing of ships carrying liquor illicitly and that the arrest of their masters but that the American government had been disposed to be patient and content itself with seizing only contraband liquor. In view of the constant stream of ships arriving in violation of the regulations it was said a sharp change in the policy was under serious consideration.

LONDON, June 27.—Former Premier David Lloyd George's warning to the people "not to get excited" over the seizure of liquor from English ships at New York indicated the intensity of feeling prevailing here today over the "dry ship" controversy.

Certain interests, especially among the Tories, are asking to make the liquor problem an international issue. The government, while Tory in politics has given no intimation that it will intervene.

Lloyd George's address was made before a London church congregation. He claimed that the United States authorities were acting within their rights in breaking British customs seals and seizing liquor on English ships.

The Daily News expressed the fear that "unwise talk" might complicate the issue. It said the problem is by no means a simple one as there is a real conflict of rights involved.

Several large liners will sail for New York from British ports this week including the Homeric and Laconia, and it is understood all will carry stores of liquor for the return voyage under official British seals despite the seizures already made at New York.

GREAT INTEREST IN SATURDAY'S RACE

Zev, Undeclared Since First Victory, Will Run in Latonia Derby

By Associated Press

LATONIA, June 27.—Great interest is being manifested in the fifteen thousand dollar added Latonia Derby to be run here Saturday. Westerners are eager to have a look at Zev, the horse that has won every start this year with the exception of Prentiss at which he was defeated by Vigil.

TELEPHONE COMPANIES MAY UNITE AT EWING

EWING, June 27.—N. O. Wood of Ronoke, state superintendent of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., C. F. Whitehead of Norton, division superintendent of the same company, and B. H. Livesey of New Tazewell, Tenn., division superintendent of the Cumberland Telephone Co., met here Saturday to discuss plans for connecting these two telephone systems by a switch to be installed at Ewing. The prospects for this are very favorable and it is established it will mean a great improvement in the telephone service.

L. M. U. SHORT COURSE BEGINS IN MORNING

Canning Instruction And Health Lecture Tomorrow—Community Day For Men and Women Friday

ALL ORGANIZATIONS IN HARROGATE BACK COURSE

A two day course given by specialists from the University of Tennessee for people of Claiborne county and vicinity. The first program of the course given on Thursday morning June 28 at 9:30 o'clock should be of especial interest to women of Middlesboro as well as the women of the county. This demonstration will show just how to pack and can fruits and vegetables to send to fairs. There will be explanations of score cards for judging exhibits so that one may know just what points will be considered in placing the prizes. Miss Purcell and Miss Parker are canning experts and will gladly answer all questions about this work.

Miss Lena Warner who gives a lecture on Eating for Health is a dietitian of much experience. She was chairman of the Red Cross Nursing Service of Tennessee during the war and did some very noteworthy work during the yellow fever epidemic in New Orleans some few years ago. If you have diet problems to work out for your family or any questions concerning foods or balanced meals, Mrs. Warner will be glad to help you.

Friday will be Community Day or Farm and Home Day. A special program has been arranged for the men concerning their problems. A tobacco specialist of national reputation will talk on all phases of growing and grading tobacco. Mr. Clyde Austin is a tobacco grower at Greeneville, Tenn. and has had wide experience in the tobacco business and understands it from the ground up. Mr. J. C. McAnis the Crop Specialist from the University of Tennessee will talk on time, clover and tobacco.

An expert will give a demonstration on eradicating the Mexican Bean Beetle, a pest that is destroying the bean crops all over the eastern part of Tennessee. Many fields in this country are suffering from this insect.

There will also be tractor demonstrations and an Athens Plow exhibition so that the men will have a full and an interesting day.

The women will have a splendid program on Friday also. This day will be devoted to sewing and interior decorating. Miss Lillian Keller a clothing specialist will give a lecture on Selection of hats and dresses, using models from Middlesboro stores. She will also give demonstrations on remodeling garments and short cuts in sewing. This program should interest every housekeeper whether they live in town or in the country.

On Friday afternoon there will be a demonstration on culling for egg production by the state poultry specialist, Mrs. Kate M. Wells. It is possible to tell whether a chicken will be a layer before they are very old. The non-layers can be culled and thus save time and money for the poultry raiser. Miss Purcell will give a demonstration on making window shades. These shades are made of unbleached muslin and are very effective. They cost but fifty cents each and they rival the expensive Venetian Blinds.

There will also be a lecture and demonstration on kitchen conveniences that should interest every housewife. There will be community singing at all programs an operetta for recreation. Miss Margaret Ambrose will direct the recreation for the short course.

All organizations including the church and Sunday school at Harrogate and neighborhood are backing the short course and a large attendance is expected.

REPORTS ON ATLANTA CONVENTION AT KIWANIS TOMORROW

Dr. T. C. Zimmerman will be chairman of the Kiwanis Club meeting tomorrow noon at the Hotel Cumberland grill room. The program will consist of the long-deferred reports of C. G. Smyth and Dr. Zimmerman on the international convention which they attended in Atlanta.

HARDING GIVES EXPLANATION TAX DECREASES

Tells of Obstacles Overcome in Reducing Federal Indebtedness At the Same Time Lowering Government Taxes

SAYS STATE AND LOCAL DEBTS ON INCREASE

By Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY, June 27.—President Harding outlined here tonight what the federal government has accomplished in decreasing taxes and the public debt and made a plea for action along similar lines by the states, municipalities and counties.

The Executive said the federal government is "diligently seeking to prove itself a helpful example" in removing what he characterized as the menace of mounting taxes and growing public indebtedness, but added that this was not alone a federal problem, that "the improved order must come into the units of government into which the federal government never intrudes."

Mr. Harding did not take up in his address any contemplated administration program for tax revision in the coming year. He did say, however, that the federal government was working under a program which "involves extinguishing a half billion of the (public) debt each year" and asserted that the payments which the British government will make under the British-American debt settlement "will correspondingly relieve the burden upon American taxpayers."

The President declared no other country in the world had been able to make such a record in public debt reduction as had the United States. Pointing to a reduction of more than one half in federal taxes during the past two years as compared with the war load peak in 1920, he declared this was the "record of business administration to which the party now in control of the administration feels justified in referring with no small measure of satisfaction."

The British debt settlement, the Executive went on, has been "acclaimed all over the world as one of the most notable and successful fiscal accomplishments ever recorded," he added that aside from reducing the burden of American taxpayers, the settlement had been one of the "most reassuring events since the armistice," coming as it did at a time of "widespread uncertainty and misgivings throughout the world of business everywhere."

Why, Yes---It's Harding

To the Budget Bureau Mr. Harding attributed much of the credit for getting government expenditures back to something like normal. Under this plan, he declared the administration has been able to "awaken a spirit of economy and efficiency in the public service."

"We have introduced business methods in government," he added, "and instead of operating blindly and to suit individual departments, which have never visualized the government as a whole, and felt no concern about the raising of funds, we are scrutinizing, justifying, coordinating, and no only halting mounting cost, but making long strides in reducing the cost of government activities."

"Perhaps the budget system would not accomplish so much for taxing and spending divisions smaller than the state, but a resolute commitment to strike at all extravagance and expend public funds as one would for himself in his personal and business affairs will accomplish wonders."

Figures furnished to him by both the Treasury and the Census Bureau the President stated, "make it perfectly plain that whereas the cost of federal government is being steadily reduced the cost of state and local governments is being just as steadily increased year by year."

"Take the costs of state government," he said, "I am informed that the revenue of the states in 1913 aggregated $208,000,000, and that in 1921 they had increased to $250,000,000; that is, they had increased 161 per cent, and every dollar of that increase of that increase had to come in some way from the public. The expenditures of the states in 1913 aggregated $283,000,000, and in 1921 they were $1,005,000,000; an increase of 163 per cent. The indebtedness of the states in 1913 amounted to $423,000,000 and

Is Marriage Success or Failure?

Marriage—most profound, most glorious, yet most perplexing incident in the life of mankind!

What is your reaction when you think of it? You who are married, how do you feel about the one great event of your lives? Are you happy and contented—glad that you went into it? Or do you look back and wonder where you might have been if—?

It is a problem that, despite its age and interest, still leaves a scar of doubt and perplexity in the minds of married women and of those who are contemplating marriage. Shall they continue their profession and renounce marriage shall they marry and stay at home, or shall they not allow marriage to interfere with their life-work?

Seeking an answer, six married women who have made a success not only of their wedded life but of their chosen professions which they have been continuing at the same time.

The first interview, below, is with Mme. Frances Alda, famous opera singer and wife of the impresario, Gino Gatti-Casazza. Others will follow daily.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Marriage is just like everything else in life—you get out of it what you put in, and no more, according to Frances Alda.

She is one of the leading sopranos of the Metropolitan Opera and the wife of Gino Gatti-Casazza, the famous impresario. Her artistic career and that of her husband have, never clashed, and their home life has been most happy and harmonious.

"If any phase of the marriage relation is not on the 50-50 basis, causing one to carry more than his share of the burden, while the other shrinks or holds back, there cannot be real happiness, and the break will come, whether it destroys the home entirely or allows the shell to remain without the soul," she explains.

She believes that the growing economic independence of women has changed for the better, their attitude toward marriage placing them in a position to command the respect and consideration which should always have been theirs, but unfortunately was not.

Woman's Place

"But to say a woman's place is in the home is absurd," she says. "After place is anywhere that provides for self-expression.

"It is so ridiculous to assume that because a woman has a career outside, she is incapable of home-making. I have always had time to oversee my home and enjoy it in spite of a very busy life. In fact, I could not have been happy or contented, or I believe successful, if I had not had it."

Any woman who marries with the idea she is making a sacrifice is on the road to matrimonial failure, she believes and reformations are more apt to take place before than after marriage.

Jealousy An Evil

"The occupation of either party in the marriage contract should have nothing to do with the success of it," she said, "and if a man and his wife are partners in business or are in the same profession, there is no logical reason for antagonism. But I know of cases where jealousy, and only professional jealousy, has destroyed romance."

Mme. Alda considers early marriage an important factor contributing to domestic success.

"When people are in that flexible state of mind that goes with youth," she concludes, "they adjust themselves more readily to new conditions and the mutual give and take so necessary to happiness."

C. I. DAWSON GETS REPUBLICAN NOMINATION FOR GOVERNOR AT CONVENTION WITHOUT FIGHT

TERRIFIC GALE DOES PROPERTY DAMAGE HERE

Light and Communication Lines Impaired by Wind and Electric Storm—Rose Hill Suffers Properly Damage

DAILY NEWS UNABLE TO PUBLISH PAPER WEDNESDAY

Electric light and power service and communication lines were seriously impaired by a terrific wind storm which swept this section yesterday afternoon. Poles bearing high tension wires near Hanson creek were torn down by the storm. The Daily News was unable to publish an edition Wednesday afternoon on account of a lack of power.

Reports from Pineville indicate that it suffered more from the storm than Middlesboro. The Cumberland Gap and Pineville roads were blocked yesterday afternoon by fallen trees. Telephone, telegraph and railroad lines were damaged. Middlesboro, groped in darkness last night, K. U. Service was resumed Thursday morning.

Buildings were wrecked, a church house was burned and hundreds of fruit trees were uprooted or broken off by the terrific wind and electrical storm in the Rose Hill, Va., vicinity at 1:30, Wednesday afternoon. The gale lasted about thirty minutes. No casualties have been reported.

The Walnut Hill churchhouse at Kynlogh, near Rose Hill, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground despite the downpour of rain. The Odd-fellow Hall, a two-story frame building was completely wrecked. A barn on the Vance, Bale farm was torn down and some mules were imprisoned under the debris. These were rescued after the storm.

The road was blocked for miles by falling trees. The gale was so fierce that trees were torn from the ground and carried through the air by the wind. The top of a building, carried some distance by the wind, fell across the road. Twenty men were required to cut a part of it away so that vehicles could pass.

THOMAS' EXECUTION IS SET FOR OCTOBER 8

FRANKFORT, June 27.—Frank Thomas, Louisville, under death penalty for the murder of Lee Arbogast, with June 25 set as the date for the execution, received a stay of execution until October 8, today by Governor Morrow. Thomas is now in the Western State Hospital, Hopkinsville. Last week he was declared to be of sound mind by the Christian Circuit Court and when he decided to appeal his case, it became necessary for the Governor to grant a stay of execution.

In 1921 to $1,012,000,000, an increase of 139 per cent.

"Turn now to the cost of city government. The Census Bureau has compiled data on the governments of 227 of the large cities. It is shown that these cities in 1913 collected $890,000,000 in all revenues, and in 1921 they collected $1,567,000,000; that is, they were compelled to take 76 per cent more in taxes in 1921 than they had taken in 1913. The same group of cities expended in 1913, $1,010,000,000 and in 1921, $1,726,000,000, an increase of 71 per cent. The total debt of this group of cities in 1913 was $2,901,000,000, which by 1921 had risen to $4,334,000,000—an increase of 49 per cent.

"County administration appears from the rather limited information which at this time the census authorities have been able to produce, to have shown a much larger proportionate increase in cost and tax collections than did the government of cities."

There is but one way for the community finally to get back on its feet, and that is to go seriously about paying its debts and reducing its expenses. That is what the world must face. The greatest and richest government must face it, and so must the humblest citizen.

"If you have debts, reduce them as rapidly as you can; if you are one of the fortunate few who have no debts, make it a rule to save something every year."

"Keep your eye everlastingly on those who administer your government, and for you, your town, your state."

Rest of Ticket Is Named With Little Difficulty—Platform Pledges Support to Road Bond Issue And Schools

PROMISE TO SIGN BILL ABOLISHING PARIMUTUEL

By Associated Press

LEXINGTON, June 27.—The result of the Republican state convention which adjourned here early today show Charles I. Dawson was nominated candidate for governor; Elbert Carter of Louisville, lieutenant governor; Miss May Long, Greenville, secretary of state; James Wallace Irvine, auditor; P. M. McCain, Mayfield treasurer; R. Monroe Fields, Whitesburg, attorney general; W. L. Layne, Richmond, superintendent of public instruction; Louis M. Lejos, Crathorn, commissioner of agriculture; John Asher Hyden, clerk of court of appeals. The platform pledged support to the fifty million dollar road bond issue, promises aid for schools and declares if the legislature passes a law abolishing parimutuel betting at race tracks the governor to be elected will sign it.

BARKLEY ACCUSES ASHER IN BRIBERY

Declares Bell County Election Commissioner Was Offered $1000 To Line Up For Cantrill

SPRINGFIELD, June 27.—A copy of a letter which he declared had been sent by C. S. Simpson, Democratic election commissioner of Bell county, to Joe Morris, secretary for J. Campbell Cantrill, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor was sent here by Allen W. Barkley, also a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, to support his charge that attempted bribery had been resorted to in the campaign.

According to the letter read by Mr. Barkley, Mr. Simpson had written to Mr. Morris to acquaint him with the facts that the writer had been approached by H. H. Asher of Pineville who represented himself to be acting for Mr. Morris. Mr. Simpson was told, according to the letter, that Mr. Morris wanted to meet him in Louisville. When he declared that he was too busy to make the trip, Mr. Simpson said it was intimated to him that Mr. Morris "wanted me to line up for Mr. Cantrill and take money, and he said, 'line the boys up for Cantrill.'"

"He even asked me," Mr. Simpson was quoted as having written, "if any amount of money up to $1,000 would interest me. I told the gentleman I was for Mr. Barkley, but that I intended to select so far as was possible men that would hold a fair election and give each party what was coming to it."

Mr. Simpson's purpose in writing, it was stated in the letter, was to determine whether Mr. Morris was acquainted with the facts that the alleged overture had been made. The name of the party Mr. Simpson claimed had approached him, was not divulged, but he promised to advise Mr. Morris in that respect when he had received a reply.

MISS IVA LOVELACE, TEACHER HERE PAST YEAR, DIES TODAY

Miss Iva Lovlace, 22, died at her home on Chester avenue early Wednesday morning of double pneumonia. She had been ill six weeks and her life had been despaired of for several weeks. She is survived by her mother Mrs. Maggie Lovlace, two sisters, Misses Virginia and Frankie, and one brother, Walter.

Miss Lovlace came here with the rest of her family from London September 11. She was a teacher of the second grade at the central school until Christmas, after which she taught the second and third grades at the Junction until she became ill. She was a member of the first Baptist church here and an earnest worker in all church activities.

The body will be taken to London Thursday where funeral services will be held Friday.

A THOUGHT

NECESSITY FOR CHURCH UNITY

Recent indications of dissension in the ministerial association which has resulted in the withdrawal of one member from the organization comes as a surprise to people of Middlesboro. The association, supported by the congregations of the several churches represented, is particularly able to be a potent force for good in the city and it is with regret that we view the rupture which divides it of a worthy member.

If there ever was a time when harmony and a spirit of cooperation should prevail in the churches it is the present. By this we do not mean that a permanent denominational union but rather a conditions of friendly organization for the general welfare of the public. The churches, losing their identity for denominational discrepancies, should be merged into vast entity for the spiritual, moral, mental and physical development of the community.

Moreover, a ministerial association should be a model for all other civic organizations. It being impossible for the members of any body to agree upon all subjects, concessions must be made by members of the organization, but differences of opinion should not affect the body as a whole.

The present condition of dissension among the leaders of the churches may result in the union of forces of denominations and their array against the other. This state of affairs is not desired by either the ministers or the public for it is a well known fact that religious dissension is the most bitter of all. Above all, let us preserve unity that the churches may take the place of leadership to which they are entitled.

GROUNDS FOR MARRIAGE

It is said truthfully that Doctor Randolph Ray, successor to the late Dr.
George C. Houghton, pastor of the historic "marrying church," the little church around the corner, can scarcely step out of his study door these few days without meeting a blushing couple. Under the new policy adopted by Doctor Ray there will be no more secret marriages and runaways cannot find a sanctuary there. Yet in spite of the ban June shows no falling off in weddings. A few of the vows given by the young divine on "how to be happy though wed" are given below:

"First: Be sure love exists." Doctor Ray said, "Mere physical attraction or mental attraction alone is not sufficient. Real love requires a combination of both.

"Second: Remember love is a partnership and marriage is a democracy.
The husband is no longer "king" in the home.

"Third: Have a financial understanding, keeping a joint checking account.
The old custom of putting the wife on an allowance is just another way of saying she is on the salary list.

"Fourth: Be prepared to sacrifice.
Marriage means giving up now.

"Marriage has withstood all the attacks of the experimentalists. Marrying is about as popular today as ever in history."

LETTER FROM MR. JOHN ALDEN

PRESIDENT TO MRS. MARY

ALDEN PRESCOTT

Good God, mother! Are you crazy?
For one minute it seemed to me that instead of writing you a letter I should jump on the train with some brain specialist and take him down to see if it would be necessary to put you in a sanitarium.

What are you thinking of when you let that scandal-breathing, venom of a snake of a Priscilla Bradford poison your mind with her jealous insinuations of one of the sweetest and dearest women on earth, a woman whose shoes your miserable son is unworthy to remove from her dainty feet?

Were you not my mother, I—Well,
I will not tell you what I would do.
It is too monstrous this thing that you have written me. I can hardly speak the word "divorce" in connection with Leslie, let alone write it.

If anything should happen that I should be separated from Leslie, I would want to die. The greatest happiness I have ever known has been since Leslie has been my wife.

There is one thing, however, I am d—d sure of and that is, if you did not happen to be my mother I would never think of making you any explanation about Leslie's being in New York. I would consider it was none of your business.

IS speeches.

Tokio radio fans heard people singing in New York, where they have something to sing about.

Greatest optimist on record so far is a St. Louis man who was caught stealing heavy underwear.

They are filming the Ten Commandments, but movie censors may cut out four or five.

While hog prices are down to the 1911 level, hogs evidently have nothing to do with pork.

Opium dealer arrested in Florida was caught napping by the cops.

Some day they are going to arrest lightning bugs for not keeping their tail lights burning.

of your business.

You had better never let me come in contact with that precious Priscilla Bradford of yours unless you want me to do her some physical violence. The idea of her going about the town and trying to find where Karl Whitney and Leslie are registered! Deliver me from the madness contained in some women's minds who call themselves good.

Just let me tell you one thing right now. I can't make you apologize to Leslie for I would not have her hurt by the knowledge that anyone could think such terrible things of her, but I can make you stay away from her until you have apologized to me for your nasty insinuations. I do not want even you to write to me.

Alice Hamilton is going to Europe.
Leslie went down to join her mother and father there and see the child off.
It is very probable that, as Karl Whitney has been a friend of the family ever since he was a little boy, he was asked to go along.

I do not care what excuse there is for his visit. If Leslie wanted to go with him to any public place for the evening, that was her right and of course, if he was there with her he was perfectly happy and probably showed his pride and joy at being able to take as beautiful a girl as my wife to a smart restaurant.

As for Leslie's smoking cigars, that is merely a question of taste. She does not break one of your precious commandments by bearing false witness against her neighbor, at least by implication and insinuation.

I don't think I was ever as angry with anyone in my life as I am with you. I am ashamed you are my mother. Perhaps I shouldn't have said that but I shall let it stand.

Bringing a child into the world is a privilege that any woman shares with every other female thing on this earth. It requires no brains, no reasoning powers, no sympathy, no soul to bear a child. Only physical strength to bear physical pain is necessary. And yet you say that mothers always understand!

I dare not write more for it would be something worse than I have said.

JOHN.

Tomorrow: Leslie's letter to her husband—Explaining her New York visit.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON, June 27.—How many degrees today?

That query here in Washington does not signify interest in the weather, but as that is just now. Nothing so commonplace as that! It reveals, instead, among the new highbrow elite of the capital, curiosity as to what new additions have been announced to the ranks of dignitaries bearing honorary degrees from our democratic institutions of learning.

If the pace keeps up, the number of honorary degrees may soon catch up with the number won by those who got their A. B. S. Ph. D.'s and other alphabetical suffixes by hard study and the burning of midnight oil.

Included in the list of Washington honors recently "honored" by "honorary" degrees are:

President Harding, McGill University, Montreal.

Secretary of State Hughes, Dartmouth.

Secretary of Treasury Mellon, Dartmouth.

Ambassador Jules Jusserand to France,
Columbia University.

Prince Cretzschmar, Italian ambassador,
Columbia University.

Baron de Caster de Machenne, Belgian ambassador, Rochester University.

Julius Barnes, president United States Chamber of Commerce, University of Pittsburgh. (Pittsburgh always practices business achievement.)

Mary Roberts Rinehart, novelist,
George Washington University.

Maybe, like us, you've had hard work reading about the senatorial election up in Minnesota, to fill the vacancy due to the death of Knute Nelson. The name of this man, Pres. who was the Republican nomination, always brought us up with a sort of jolt. We didn't know what to make of it—how to say it. "Pres-us" or something like that,
we decided it must be.

But today we cornered a man from Minnesota who knows him.

"What about this fellow 'Pres-us'?"
we asked.

Our reply was a blank stare. "Pres-us" we repeated. "The new number for the Senate."

"Oh," came the answer. "You mean
Price? Yes, that's his name—Price-us.
Price, just like that."

In case the gentleman is elected, we are going to hunt up a senator to be responsible for making simplified spelling of senatorial names compulsory.

Score again for democracy!

GET OUT IN OPEN AS MOTOR CAMPER

The auto camper has grown so in numbers during the last decade that his needs have interested the United States government, nearly every state in the Union and hundreds of cities and towns. Camping grounds of varying degrees of excellence are being provided by the hundreds every year.

An idea of the elaborateness of some of these parks can be had by the following provisions made by many: Water electric lights, toilets, gas plants for cooking, fireplaces, police protection, rest rooms, grocery stores, fire wood, ice boxes and individual shelter houses. A camping ground as well equipped as this is often found in the west.

The government has provided countless camping sites in the territories supervised by its two great branches, the Forest Service and the National Park Service.

There is no charge made in these preserves for the privilege of camping. They belong to the people and are set apart for their use.

Nearly every state is setting apart lands within their borders for the campers, particularly in the west. It is not uncommon to find parks containing from 50 to 300 acres where the outdoor lover may revel in fishing, boating, bathing, etc. Grounds controlled by the states are generally free and one can stay as long as he likes as a rule.

The cities and towns usually cooperate with the local chambers of commerce or automobile clubs in maintaining the camps. These sometimes can only be used by the payment of a small fee, although most of them are free. Municipalities have found that it pays to welcome the traveling motorist.

One of the most magnificent experiences in the life of a motorist is a tour of the national parks, a journey in itself of some 6000 miles. Here the camper may see some of the finest scenery in the world and live like a king in the great outdoors.

Camping grounds are everywhere in the parks and easy of access. It is an education in itself, living for weeks in Uncle Sam's playgrounds.

In the east it is not always easy to find a public camping ground and it is a common practice to ask permission of farmers and land owners for the use of camp sites on private property.

In such instances, one cannot always get the conveniences desired. The camper must select his site with care. The ideal site is a spot, high and dry, near good water and not too shaded.

SEATTLE, June 27.—The main feature of Alaska's territory one fifth the size of the United States proper and possessing untimable riches in minerals, timber and animal life will be determined by policies to be decided upon by President Harding and cabinet members following their personal visit of inspection and inquiry.

Accompanied by Secretaries Hoover, Work and Wallace of the department of Commerce, Interior and Agriculture, President and Mrs. Harding sail from Seattle July 5 on the navy transport Henderson.

The trip to Alaska will be made through the famous Inside Passage, for not only is it one of the scenic wonders of the country but also it will be enjoyed more by Mrs. Harding said to be a very poor sailor.

Guided By Government

Following the landing at Ketchikan, Harding will be greeted by Governor Scott C. Rine and staff. The tour will start from this point.

One of the most picturesque spots in Alaska, the Matlana Indian colony founded by Father DuRoi will be one of the first places visited.

From there the party goes to Wrangell, then to the little fishing village of Petersburg. Then to Sitka, former capital where the president will see the old territorial capitol buildings and the spot where the Stars and Stripes was run up in 1867 to mark the passage of Alaska from Russian hands into American possession.

The president then goes to Juneau, present capital where Harding will sleep in the White House of the North. Chalk of Terricks an army post will be the starting point for Skagway, the jumping off place for the famous Klondike rush.

To Cross Gulf

The president and party then will cross the Gulf of Alaska to Cordova. A rail trip along the bank of the Copper river will be made to Mile and Childs glaciers. The party then goes to Seward via Valdez, thence to Fairbanks over the government's Alaskan railway.

The conflict of authority and duplication of effort between 37 different governmental departments and bureaus now controlling Alaskan affairs has made it impossible for President Harding to visualize conditions there or to decide on methods for simplifying, coordinating the government's activities to act them on in efficient practicable ways.

Chief among the problems the president hopes to settle is a result of his personal visit to Alaska are:

1. Whether complete jurisdiction over the whole of Alaska shall be vested in a single department of the government.

2. Whether a colonization and immigration plan shall be put into effect to increase population and assist the ultimate development of the territory's resources.

Minerals and Fish

Whether a specially trained corps of men to search out and report on mineral resources shall be maintained in Alaska.

4. Whether branch lines and spur lines of the Alaska Railroad shall be constructed to extend its industrial usefulness.

5. Whether more liberal federal appropriations for the opening of roads and trails in interior Alaska shall be approved. A regular yearly appropriation of $1,500,000 is asked.

6. Whether the fishing industry now threatened with extinction by reckless exploiting is to be checked and regulated by placing supreme control in Department of Commerce.

7. Whether additional lights and assistance to navigation is to be provided along Alaska's coast and inland channels.

8. Whether improved facilities for travel and commerce to Alaska shall be provided by placing Shipping Board vessels in the Alaska service.

In addition to these other important points to be considered deal with the mining and land laws, the creation of a territorial capitol building, the co-operation of law enforcing agencies, the enactment of new game laws, the protection of seal from whales, the division of funds from the Prudhoe seal fisheries and the construction of a tourist road to Mt. McKinley and Mt. Katmai.

If the presidential party covers all the subject points, the president will approximately 20 days of the school year. It says the test will prove to be an excellent measure of the student's progress and will be a valuable aid in the study of the subject.

From Seattle the president will sail on the Henderson, a navy transport, for Ketchikan. The trip will be made through the Inside Passage, famous for its scenic beauty. The Henderson is a very poor sailor, but the president is expected to enjoy the trip.

This will be followed by a visit to the Matlana Indian colony, one of the most picturesque spots in Alaska. The party then goes to Wrangell, then to the little fishing village of Petersburg. Then to Sitka, former capital where the president will see the old territorial capitol buildings and the spot where the Stars and Stripes was run up in 1867 to mark the passage of Alaska from Russian hands into American possession.

Standard"

Experimenting with off-grade or unknown motor oils is a dangerous and expensive pastime. There are undoubtedly other good oils on the market today, but the experience of this Company has been so large and covers so many years, that it has produced a motor lubricant of the highest quality—to retail at the lowest price commensurate with its value.

Pay more attention to your motor. Find out from our chart of recommendations just what grade and weight of oil your motor requires and, once you have determined this fact, remember that for efficiency and long-run economy you had "Better Stick to the Standard" and put nothing in your crank case but

Puzzling Plays By Billy Evans

THE PLAY

"Bone-headed" base running is responsible for many unusual plays in baseball. If the runners made the proper play a lot of the technical points would never arise. Just listen to this one:

The bases are filled, and one out, when the batsman hits a short fly to left field. The fielder is unable to get the catch. The ball strikes close to the foul line, but is ruled a fair ball by the umpire.

The runner on third crosses the plate on the hit. The runner on second goes half way to third, but thinks the ball is foul, turns back to second. The runner on first, who was almost to second seeing the runner start to second, started back to first.

The ball was thrown to the third baseman, who steps on that bag. He throws to second baseman, who steps on that bag. When the two plays are made, there is a runner on second and two runners standing on first.

What was the proper ruling on that play?

THE INTERPRETATION

When the ball was thrown to the third baseman, who touched that bag and then thrown to the second baseman who in turn touched that base a double play was made which retired the side.

The runner on second was forced to advance to third on the hit, and when the ball was thrown to that base while he was still standing on second, the play simply resolved itself into a force-out.

When the ball was thrown to second base ahead of the runner who was standing on first with the batsman, it was simply a case of another force-out.

Although the runner on third had scored before the play was made at third, making the second out of the inning, the run does not score. The rules say a run cannot score on a play in which the third out is a force-out, as was the case here.

WOULD SHUT DOWN GAS WORKS

"My stomach has been so filled with gas for the last three years that I felt I could pretty nearly supply our town. I also had frequent pains in right side in region of the appendix. Doctors didn't help much. One day my neighbor told me about what May's Wonderful Remedy had done for him and I got a bottle of our druggist. I can say that it will do all and more than you claim for it." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at Lee's and druggists everywhere.

NEIGHBORLY ADVICE

Freely Given by a Middlesboro Citizen
When one has suffered tortures from a bad back and found relief from the aches and pains, that person's advice is of untold value to friends and to neighbors. The following neighborly advice comes from a Middlesboro resident:

E. T. Marcum, prop. shoe shop, 13th and Cumberland Sts., says: "I took Doan's Kidney Pills for an attack of weak kidneys and they strengthened me up in good shape. My kidneys had been weak for a long time. The acted irregularly and I was bothered both day and night. I was weak and run down. Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in my family with good results so I got some. They strengthened my kidneys right away. I am sure Doan's are a fine kidney remedy."

AN ORDINANCE

Providing for water connections to certain parcels of property and providing for the payment of the cost thereof and creating a lien to pay same.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE BOARD OF COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MIDDLESBORO, KENTUCKY:

Sec. 1. All property, lots or parcels of ground abutting upon the street improvement ordered to be constructed and now under contract for such construction as follows, to-wit:

Fitzpatrick Avenue from the South line of the Canal Reservation throughout its entire length to the North curb line of Cumberland Avenue;

Cumberland Avenue from the West line of intersection of Seventeenth Street throughout its entire length to the East curb line of Tenth Street;

Cumberland Avenue from the East intersection of Twenty-second Street throughout its entire length to the West line of Fitzpatrick Avenue;

Petersborough Avenue from the North curb line of Cumberland Avenue to the North curb line of Dorchester Avenue;

each line of Manchester Avenue to the South curb line of Dorchester Avenue;

Ashbury Avenue from the East curb line of Nineteenth Street to the West curb line of Wilderness Road and Fitzpatrick Avenue;

And it is hereby made unlawful and a misdemeanor to tear up or cut into any of the said streets after completion and punishable by a fine of not more than one hundred ($100.00) and imprisonment for not more than thirty (30) days and each cutting shall be a separate offense.

Sec. 2: The owners of said property shall forthwith make said water connections with said water main at their own exclusive cost and failing so to do, the same shall be done by the contractor constructing said streets in the course of said work and the cost thereof shall be charged and assessed against said property and said property owners, and a lien is hereby created and given to secure the payment thereof against such property and the same shall be included in the estimate assessed against said property as a part of the cost of said improvement.

Sec. 3: The publication of this ordinance twice in one of the newspapers of this city shall be notice to each and every property owner of the proceedings herein provided for.

Sec. 4: All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Approved: J. H. KEENEY Mayor.

Attest: M. S. HOLLINGSWORTH Clerk.

50,000 Partners In the Business of Serving the Public

This large number of men and women represent the "Louisville & Nashville Family"—an organization whose members are working shoulder to shoulder in the important business of providing safe, efficient and economical transportation for the territory served.

From the boy who carries water for the construction gang, to the chief engineer; from the track-walker to the general manager; from the call-boy to the mechanical superintendent; from the ticket seller to the traffic manager; from the freight clerk to the general freight agent; from the youngest clerk in the auditing, purchasing and legal departments to the comptroller, the chief counsel and the executive head—this big family of L. & N. employees appreciates, individually and collectively the work in which they are engaged, and they work out the problems of their duties not simply to the end of earning a livelihood, but for the satisfaction that comes with having had a part in the building of this great Nation.

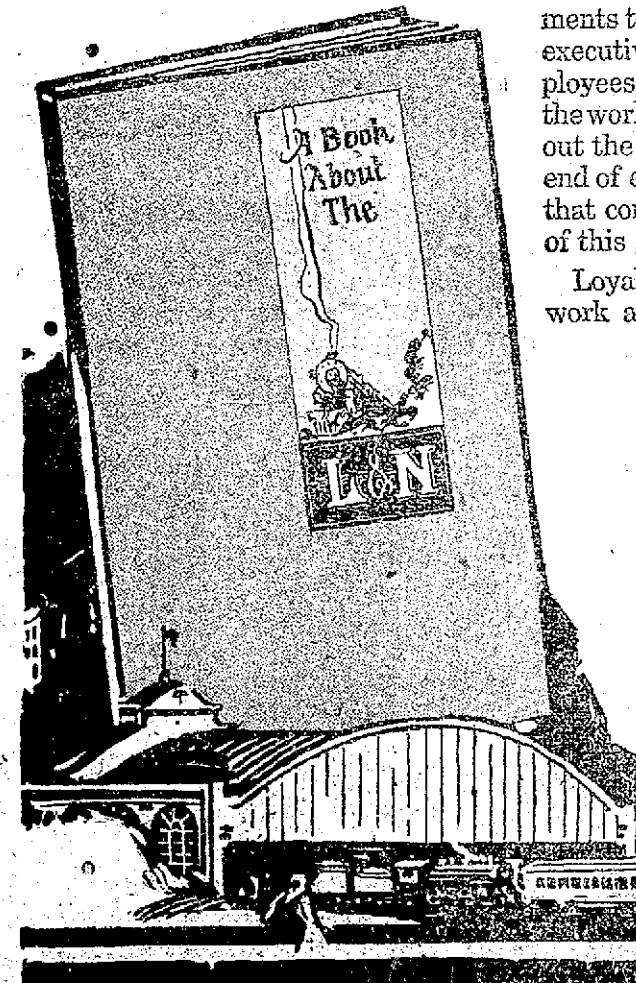

Loyalty, courtesy, on-the-job efficiency and teamwork are the four sterling qualities which have made possible the building of this property. Every employee of the L. & N. Railroad, from the president to the humblest clerk, looks on his or her individual job as a vitally important one in the general operation of the Road, and feels that in the performance of his or her duty, a distinct service to the community and the country as a whole—as well as to the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company—is being rendered.

In order that these employees and the public in general may know, in detail, more of this great industry of transportation; in order that they may be informed as to the progress made by this and other railroads; and in order that they may gain an insight into the future of the Country by knowledge of its past progress—the Louisville & Nashville Railroad has just issued

"A Book About The L. & N."

This book is complete and interesting, and a copy will be placed in the hands of every employee or other person who desires one. The management feels that this book will be carefully read by every one of the 50,000 L. & N. partners in the business of serving the public; and that in addition, the readers of this newspaper will find much to interest them in the pages of this book. The suggestion is therefore made to any one desiring a copy of the book, that upon request of any official of the L. & N., it will be forwarded without charge.

BID ME TO LIVE

Bid me to live and I shall live
Thy protestant to be;
Or bid me love, and I will give
A loving heart to thee.
A heart as soft, a heart as kind,
A heart as sound and free
As in the whole world thou canst find,
That heart I'll give to thee.
Bid that heart stay, and it will stay,
To honor thy decree;
Or bid it languish quite away,
And it shall do so for thee.
Bid me to weep, and I will weep
While I have eyes to see;
And having none yet I will weep
A heart to weep for thee.
Bid me despair and I'll despair
Under that cypress tree;
Or bid me die, and I will dare
Even Death, to die for thee.
Thou art my life, my love, my heart.

The very eyes of me,

And hast command of every part,
To live and die for thee.

TODAY'S RECIPES

NATIONAL SOUFFLE

Soak two tablespoons gelatin in one-half cup water for half an hour. Add one-half cup boiling water, one-half cup sugar and a few grains salt and stir until sugar is dissolved. Then add two tablespoons lemon juice and one cup grape juice and set in a pan of ice to cool.

As it begins to stiffen, add three egg whites stiffly beaten, and one pint thin cream which has been whipped to a froth. Turn into a mold and chill for three hours. Unmold, garnish with stiffly beaten cream and lady fingers. Loganberry juice may be used, in place of grape juice.

A little patience goes a long way toward the development of a good to fair game of golf. Many a man who has made a success at his business only through long years of study and application finally takes up golf, and imagines that all he needs to do to become a good player is to take a few lessons from the home professional and then start out after a course record.

He would laugh heartily, or scoff at the idea that anybody could come into his business and learn thoroughly in a few weeks what it took him years to master, yet he doesn't stop to think that it is just as fanciful for him to imagine that golf is an open book for any and all comers.

Give the professional half a chance, by trying to grasp what he tells you.

follow it up with serious practice and then if you don't succeed it is either a case of your being a hopeless duffer or else that the professional has not thoroughly diagnosed your case.

No instructor is infallible, however, and it may be that where one expert has failed to improve a pupil's game, another might immediately hit upon the "missing link" the moment he saw the embryo take a swing.

So don't get discouraged if your game is slow in coming along. Sometimes it happens that a man seems to be getting nowhere and the nail of a sudden he finds the groove and advances with astonishing rapidity.

IT WILL LIVE FOREVER!

"The Flirt" is such a story as Booth Tarkington has always loved to write—full of dramatic situations—irresistible humor—and just enough pathos now and then to arouse the softer emotions. No one knows American life as Tarkington knows it; no one can depict it more graphically. I earnestly advise everybody in this city to see "THE FLIRT" with its remarkable cast and excellent production. You will remember it long after you have forgotten all other pictures.
